Dear Mr. Hundt:

I would like to voice my support—along with many other like-minded citizens—for your efforts to win the three-hour minimum of educational programming on TV for children. Effective as the Public Broadcasting Service is in befriending children, it must divide its time among numerous other constituents as well. Asking private sector television stations to share the responsibility with PBS is not an unreasonable cost for the right to use the air waves, especially in light of the private sector's ample resources.

Thank you for this crusade for children—and good luck.

Sincerely yours,
Contract Design
